

Speaker profile Andrew Brown

Andy joined Toro in 1999 as the Corporate Accounts Manager for the Toro International Division. Working with a team of experienced regional sales managers and an extensive network of national distributors Andy develops comprehensive sports turf and landscape maintenance solutions for golf course management companies, hotel and resort operators as well as many of the leading facilities in golf and the wider sports market.

Having graduated from Cranfield University with an MSc. in Water Management in 1990, Andy went on to work for the Overseas Development Administration (the UK Government's development and aid agency) as an irrigation engineer and project manager based in Egypt. On his return in 1994 he set up and managed an irrigation design, contracting and distribution business.

Andy has spoken at a number of conferences around Europe including the KPMG Golf Business Forum, the Golf Club Managers Association and the European Institute of Golf Course Architects.

Andy was Chairman of the UK Irrigation Association for four years and is still a member of the Executive Council.

Currently living in Oxfordshire in the UK, Andy is married with a 10 year old son.

